Table of Contents

Executive Summary iii
1. Introduction 1
1.1 Purpose and scope 1
1.2. Definitions 2
2. Pro-poor regulation 2
2.1. Understanding poverty 2
Relative or absolute pro-poor growth 6
Direct and indirect pro-poor growth 8
What does this mean for water regulation 9
3. International and other sector experience 10
3.1. From infrastructure to regulation 10
3.2. Issues arising from international experience 12
3.3. South Africa Environmental and Energy Regulation 15
4. Institutional Criteria for Water Resources Regulation 16
4.1. Methodology 17
4.2. Institutional Criteria 17
4.3. Responsiveness 18
Accessibility 18
Participation 19
Responsiveness to local conditions 20
4.4 . Viability 20
Low costs 21
Affordable 21
Optimising available capacity 21
4.5. Institutional Stability 21
Independent 22
Institutional Alignment 23
Institutional predictability 24
Mandate 24
Transparency and accountability 24
4.6. Decentralisation 25
5. Regulatory Functional Analysis 28
5.1. Key functions for WR Regulation 28
5.2. Function and scale 30
6. Institutional arrangements for South Africa 35
6.1. Water Resources Economic Regulation 37
6.2. Water Resources Governance Regulation 37
7. Conclusion 38
7.1. Further research questions 39
8 Appendix A: Country studies 40
8.1. Water rich developing countries 40
8.2. Water scarce developing countries 40
8.3. Water scarce middle income countries 44
8.4. Relatively water rich middle income countries 48
8.5. Water rich developed countries 49
8.6. Water scarce developed countries 50
8.7. South Africa 53
Environmental regulation 53
Energy regulation 54
9. References 56