EXECUTIVE SUMMARY	ii
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	vii
1. PROJECT DESIGN	4
1.1. Introduction	4
1.2. Purpose and value of the research	4
1.3. Project aims	6
1.4. Methodology	6
1.5. Target population and Sampling	7
2. CONCEPTUALISING RAPID CAPACITY BUILDING.	9
2.1. Introduction	9
2.2. An understanding of rapid capacity building in the managing of water and waste	9
2.3. Technical capacity	10
2.4. Managerial capacity	11
2.5. Financial capacity	11
2.6. Interrelationship of technical, managerial, and financial capacity	12
2.7. Factors that encourage or impair capacity building	12
2.8. Actions to establish or enhance authorities to ensure the capacity of water systems	12
2.8.1. Co-ordinate agency capacity efforts	13
2.8.2. Conduct regular meetings	13
2.8.3. Formulate interagency policies	13
2.8.4. Share data and information resources	13
2.8.5. Clarify state and local rules	13
2.8.6. Promote awareness of capacity issues	14
2.8.7. Form a stakeholder group	14
2.8.8. Educate communities	14
2.8.9. Educate consumers and communities	14
2.8.10. Educate the technical community	14
2.8.11. Encourage interconnection, consolidation, and regionalisation	15
2.8.12. Require consideration of regional alternatives	15
2.8.13. Promote regional planning	15
2.8.14. Establish an interconnection policy	15
2.8.15. A comprehensive business plan	15
2.8.16. A technical operations plan	16
2.8.17. Develop benchmarks or minimum standards	16
2.8.18. Ensure take-over by another entity in case of failure	16
2.9. Methods or criteria to prioritise systems	16
2.10. Information needs for capacity building	17
2.11. Strategic planning	18
3. POLICY DOCUMENTS AND LEGISLATION	19

5.6.2.	The level of competencies		44
5.7.	Regional water and waste services model/network		45
5.8.	A case study of a success story		46
5.8.1.	A brief background		46
5.8.2.	Some of the challenges faced by the community		47
6	A MODEL FOR RAPID CAPACITY BUILDING		48
6.1	Introduction		48
6.2	Capacity development		49
6.2.1	Technical capacity		49
6.2.2	Managerial capacity		49
6.2.3	Financial capacity		50
6.2.4	Interrelationship of technical, managerial, and financial capacity		51
6.3	Stages of capacity building		51
6.3.1	Assessment of capacity building needs		51
6.3.2	Assessment of existing resources and capacity		51
6.3.3	Detailed definition of development needs		51
6.3.4	Immediate support to capacity building		52
6.3.5	Planning and implementation of capacity building program		52
6.3.6	Monitoring and evaluation		52
6.4	A model for rapid capacity building		53
6.4.1	A micro system for capacity building		53
6.4.2	A Macro system for rapid capacity building (A Network system)		54
6.4.3	The strategic planning process to utilise the model		56
6.5	Issues to be considered in the capacity building model		57
6.6	Factors which impair or encourage capacity development		58
6.6.1	Factors that may impair capacity development		58
6.6.2	Factors that may encourage capacity development		58
6.7	Actions to establish or enhance authority to ensure the capacity of water systems		58
6.7.1	Coordinate agency capacity efforts		58
6.7.2	Prioritise systems		58
6.7.3	Classification of water and waste systems		59
6.7.4	Conduct regular meetings		59
